Fenenboch on Esk st String

By DICK BEDDOES
(Bulletin Sports Writer)
REGINA, Sept. 17.—Chuck Fenenboch, 37, of Regina, is the first string Eskimo quarterback for Edmonton Eskimos football, club finally come true.
Last night Coach Allan Stukus announced that Oakland-born Fenenboch would prefer using Fenenboch at right half. He is a fine runner, having been labeled as one of the finest to come this way in many and many a year.

EXECUTIVE ORDER
However, the switch is believed to have been ordered by certain of the Edmonton executives, who feel that Fenenboch is the man for the job.
There was a bit of rain in the air this morning as Stukus gave the club a final check talk.
That means that conditions for today's game (Monday) will be hazardous. Forecast is for variable cloudiness and 24-40 miles an hour wind.

STAMPS FAVORED
They were getting quite a few letters at those odds.
Calgary Stampers are heavily favored to triumph the Blue Bombers in Winnipeg tonight, and the wise money picks Eskimos to do the same thing Monday night.

A $1,600,000 expansion program for the Royal Alexandra hospital was approved by the hospital's board of governors here last night.
A new east wing containing 140 adult beds to bring hospital accommodation to 700 beds and a centralized utility wing containing kitchen, laboratory, X-ray rooms and pharmacy departments are planned.

City council will be asked to prepare the $1,600,000 money to lay out, which will likely go before property owners at the fall city election.
The city's first hospital plan, prepared by James Gowan of Gowan, Ferguson and Lindsay, studied hospital needs at the Royal Alexandra.

ROUGH PLANS SHOWN
Rough plans for the proposed extension were shown to board members last night, who voted unanimously for the expansion.
The city's first hospital plan, prepared by James Gowan of Gowan, Ferguson and Lindsay, studied hospital needs at the Royal Alexandra.

REVENUE GAINS
Gross revenue of the hospital increased to $262,179 during the first eight months of 1948, a boost of $25,000 over the corresponding period last year.
Increased cost of operation resulted in an overall deficit, with expenditures for operation $17,000 above the estimate.

Cost of operation for the first eight months of the year was $262,179, which is $25,000 more than was spent in the corresponding period last year.
Of the $26,000 allocated by city council to date, $28,500 was used for capital expenditures, the board was told.

FLOATING HOLOCAUST CLAIMS 226 LIVES

DEATH SHIP for at least 192, and possibly 226, persons in Canadian Steamship's Great Lakes cruise vessel Noronic was caught fire shortly before midnight, Edmonton time, and swiftly became flaming holocaust. Firemen have been engaged in grim task of removing bodies from blackened hull for hours. Toll may be increased by drownings of persons who leaped into the water. Fire occurred while ship was berthed in Toronto.

Fire-Scarred Ship's Hull Backdrop of Tragic Scene

By CHARLES BRUCE
TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(CP)—At noon today the cruise ship Noronic's fire-scarred hull lay at her dock, listing slightly to starboard, with smoke still wisping from forward portholes.

Down listing gangplanks, across a narrow strip of murky dock water, swarming men do their grim duty. Each stretcher bears a shapless tarpaulin bundle, and each is preceded by a black and white volunteer and a rubber-gloved morgue attendant.
BEYOND RECOGNITION
As time ran on, the fatality count rose, apart from police, firemen and morgue attendants, who had permission to be there. They stood without moving much until another tarpaulin bundle came down the gangplank.

Then they would edge in slowly to the theatre, drawn perhaps by curiosity, but from the look, more by the mixture of pity and fear and sadness that drove living people together in the presence of death.
Now and then someone would squat up to the sun at the ship's stern, blackened, mangled, and twisted, a bright blue cloud-spoked sky with fiery streaks of light drifting in the warm wind.
Along her upper deck a dozen or so metal lifeboats lay crumpled under twisted debris, like misshapen tin cans crushed on a dump heap.

Heavy wire-mesh guard rails looked like torn mosquito-netting. All the ships' upper-deck plating was scorched and scorched, and scorched.

TOUCH OF NERVES
Once a police sergeant barked: "Keep back! Let the firemen do their work!" It was probably just as they were feeling; there was really no crowding.
Now and then someone would squat up to the sun at the ship's stern, blackened, mangled, and twisted, a bright blue cloud-spoked sky with fiery streaks of light drifting in the warm wind.

Along her upper deck a dozen or so metal lifeboats lay crumpled under twisted debris, like misshapen tin cans crushed on a dump heap.

Cool, Cloudy Sunday Here

Storm centre that rose over the Pacific and moved across to Saskatchewan brought wet weather and gusty winds on the first day of the 1949 season. In Edmonton, precipitation has totalled 27 inches since 11 o'clock yesterday morning.
When it reached the prairie, the storm brought rain to the area extending from Peace River and Fort McMurray to Red D. and from the Rockies east to Saskatoon and Prince Albert. Greatest fall was at Wagner in the Lesser Slave Lake area where a fall of 13 inches was recorded.

Outlook for Sunday is for continued cloudy and cool weather with westerly winds up to 20 mph at times. No rain is forecast and estimated light to moderate.

Final Toll of 226 Is Said Possible

By Tim Dickson

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(CP)—At least 192 and possibly 226 persons lost their lives today when the worst ship fire in a century on the Great Lakes gutted the cruise ship Noronic at her dock in downtown Toronto.

Police said at noon 192 bodies were recovered, including those taken from the water and those who died in hospital. At that time 153 bodies had been taken from the ship.
At 1 p.m. police and firemen halted the search for bodies. They said no more could be recovered until the ship's lower deck is pumped out. Because of sprung plates this might take 10 days or two weeks.

The blaze started in a C-deck cabin aft near the cocktail bar. Some bodies were unrecovered in the submerged C-deck. Canada Steamship Lines officials, checking on a list of passengers and crew not released to the press, said at 10:30 a.m. that 226 passengers, firemen and crew were unaccounted for. But they stated this figure would be reduced as unlisted survivors turned up.

CSI officials said their solicitor advised them not to release the lists until all were accounted for and next-of-kin notified.
The task of tracing the 682 persons aboard the Noronic was the last cruise of a busy tourist season promised to extend for days.

J. R. Beck, assistant general transport agent for CSI, said $12 million—mostly from Cleveland, Detroit and other U.S. cities—were aboard with 170 crew.
The flame-driven panic of the blaze, first reported at 2:30 a.m. (EDT) drove passengers into the Hundreds aboard escaped by leaping to the dock. The deck where the ship started to burn was the C-deck, one below the main deck—was submerged when the 260-ft. ship tilted by the stern in the bottom of the slip where she had docked at 2 p.m. Friday en route to the Thousand Islands.

Hundreds Leap to Dock

and one died before admission. One woman, fully-clad, drowned after she jumped into the water to escape.
By midday, the two-acre barge was a mess of twisted metal and charred wood. Bodies were scattered in the water. Some were recovered, but many were not.

The water-front holocaust was the worst ship-fire on the Great Lakes since the Edmund Fitzgerald burned in Lake Michigan on Nov. 10, 1945, with 267 dead. Four years ago, the Hamilton, sister ship of the Noronic, burned near Sarnia, killing 100 people.

In addition to those trapped in the deaths, four women were known dead, only two identified. The two died in hospital from injuries.

Cause Still Unknown

Fifty firemen worked with pikes and shovels to clear the charred wood and metal that was the forward section, bringing out bodies wrapped in lawns. Bodies were strapped to aluminum trays.
Sometimes three or four bodies, sometimes only broken parts of seats and legs, were recovered. Some were transferred to the dock and loaded into police cars for the morgue.

An hour after the firemen were able to go aboard the ship, J. R. Beck said, it was decided that the body of a woman, not recovered, would be taken to the morgue. The body of a woman, not recovered, would be taken to the morgue.

Night of Horror, Heroism Related by Ship Survivors

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(CP)—Huddled in hospital corridors and in the lobby of a downtown hotel, burned and hysterical passengers of the Noronic told today of a night of horror and heroism in which they were hauled or scrambled from the burning ship.
For a half-hour after flames enveloped his ship, Capt. William Taylor was still standing in the bow, blowing ropes to passengers and shouting over the side. As he was being taken ashore on a fireman's ladder the ladder broke and he fell into the icy bay and had to be pulled out.

Passengers said they saw the captain left the ship he burst in cabin doors, hauling women out on deck.
Lucille Roberts of Detroit said she saw a man on an upper deck surrounded by flames.

wreckage which looked like a burning cigarette with flickering candles of flame. The gentle wind had blown away almost all the heavy smoke and steam which for hours shrouded the wreck and a full haze hung over the scene.

Altogether, the ship was filled with bobbing, jolting and a couple of duff-buoys floated nearby. Lifeboats dragged from a rowboat for bodies of any who had jumped drowned as scores jumped overboard or slid down ship's ropes in the darkened confusion when the fire was first discovered.

Fire officials, standing on the pier fitted with life-belts and helmets, were still unable to explain the cause of the outbreak. They

Captain Leads Rescue

The ship's master, Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, personally helped rescue many of the passengers. With W. R. Brown of Port Arthur, a special officer of the line, he supervised the rescue of at least one woman passenger to safety.

When the ship was reported in a state of severe shock and in no condition to take to port, it was towed by the tugboat, a member of the fleet, and a member of the crew, jumped overboard to help the ship.

Many of the passengers, awoken by the roar of flames, smashed and climbed through the windows to reach the deck. Those who were not about the head and shoulders in the water, the ship's master, Taylor, led the rescue.

From the railing of the upper decks, many passengers, still in night attire, jumped into the water. Firemen pulled and pried them from the wreckage of the ship.

Among the survivors was Lorne Pettit, a crew member from Port Arthur. Lee Curtis of Port Arthur was listed among those taken to hospital. Extent of his injuries was not known.

Mildred Briggs of Detroit said the flames spread almost as if the ship was a matchbox. "The fire just welled up along the corridors and spread fast," she said. "I've never seen a fire so fast."

She praised heroic work by crew members, scuba the ship's officers, in maintaining a sense of calm and order. J. Donald Church, of Silver Lake, Ohio, described by fellow passengers as one of the heroes, said he dashes the fire started in a laundry cupboard near the bar. He went in a rowboat to pick up three men struggling in the sea and got them close to the dock before the boat capsized.

There was a mob of men and women surging back and forth. Men were pushing women about. Many were knocked to the ground. The screaming filled the air. There was so much panic that I don't know how these people got organized to find a way to safety. I've never seen a fire so fast."

The Noronic, whose sister ship the Hamonic was wrecked by fire Dec. 10, lost one life near Sarnia in 1943, lay in the slip with her main deck almost in the water. The wooden superstructure of the two upper decks was burned away and the ship's skeleton was exposed to the sky. A Toronto-made passenger steamship, moored alongside the Noronic, with her bow abaft-Sage and Cayuga moved out into the harbor, where she remained until the Cayuga moved on, spreading to other vessels in the area appeared past.

Leo Canale of Fort Erie, Ont., a member of the crew, jumped overboard to help the ship. He was the closest and I want to be.

Jim Williams of Winnipeg, one of the pantry staff, escaped down a back ladder and said: "I'm told all the deckhands escaped safely. Nobody knows for sure where the fire started. I think it was in the laundry cupboard near the bar."

172 Faces Killed By Police

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 17.—(Reuter)—Armed police troops killed more than 172 Communist guerrillas and other prisoners in a vast manhunt following the escape Friday of 333 convicts from Makpo jail, southern Korea, Justice Minister Kwon Sung Ryul said today.

Charged in City Smash
An Edmonton man was charged with dangerous driving following an accident last night which sent the man to hospital.

In critical condition at Royal Alexandra hospital is Eddie McNeil, a 31-year-old man, who was injured in a possible fractured skull.

McNeil was thrown from the car into the street by the impact of the crash. A third person in the car, Miss Chris Hall, was treated for superficial face cuts.

The automobile was almost a total loss. Little damage was caused to the truck.

Appearing on a charge of dangerous driving in police court today, Stein was remanded and released on $500 bail.

We go from here depends on what occurs at the trial. Stein's defense lawyer, J. W. Winters, said in Parliament that the federal government should be asked to consider a possible expansion of the National Housing Act.

He said he was sure that amendments to the act are expected to come before Parliament this session.

Public Waits
"You wait until you hear what Mr. Winters has to say in the Commons," said Mr. Winters.

The housing problem was tough, since the private sector appeared to have their own kind of housing troubles. Mr. Winters preferred to approach them separately on different angles.

"I think now we are forming the basis for agreement on how the housing problems should be attacked," said Mr. Winters. "Where we go from here depends on what occurs at the trial."

Housing Woe Solution Sure
OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—(CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario yesterday expressed belief that if Reconstruction Minister Winters gets the "green light" in Parliament this session, a big chunk of Canada's housing troubles will be on the way to solution.

For two hours he talked with Mr. Winters and with Prime Minister St. Laurent, he said in an interview. Housing was the focus point of discussion but he declined to say whether the talks concerned possible expansion of the National Housing Act.

He said he was sure that amendments to the act are expected to come before Parliament this session.

Sale of 'Alta. Health Insurance' Charged

A man alleged to have posed as a provincial government health insurance agent was charged in police court yesterday.

A. Frederick, of New Sarpta, claimed Lynn Phillips of Edmonton sold him a health insurance policy while posing as a provincial government agent. The salesman told him he was for the government but just a policy agent. Health insurance agents dealing with actual handling of the policy (there being placed in private hands) were being paid in a manner. The witness said he paid $100 for the policy not knowing he was buying a regular commercial policy.

He also claimed the salesman had assured him that he could not undergo an operation for his eye (equivalent known to exist before the policy was taken out). Defence counsel W. A. McNeil pointed out that the application form clearly stated all conditions. The witness, however, claimed he did not fully understand the policy and had accepted the word of the salesman.

Another New Sarpta man, Rudolph Mayer, said Phillips had sold him a policy for $85. He said the salesman claimed to be a member of a far-eastern communion which had recently studied the health plan in Saskatchewan. On the recommendation of the communion the Alberta government had decided to put on a new Alberta scheme in private hands, the salesman said.

Burglar Tools Net Two-Year Jail Term

An ex-convict described as "potentially a dangerous man" was sentenced to federal penitentiary yesterday.

Mike Tokar, of Two Hills, was given two years at Prince Albert penitentiary by Supreme Court Judge H. B. Fraser. Found guilty at trial earlier this week of being in possession of burglar's tools, Tokar's sentence was effective from date of arrest, May 21.

The Two Hills man underwent medical examination at Oliver Hospital. Psychiatrists found no sign of psychosis, but did find psychopathic tendencies. Included on Tokar's criminal record is a conviction for being in possession of a seven-year sentence given in 1942 for robbery with violence. During this imprisonment, he was appointed by the crown, suggested Tokar was more in need of medical treatment than a penitentiary sentence. Defence Counsel Frank Duncan, appointed by the crown, suggested Tokar was more in need of medical treatment than a penitentiary sentence.

"But I think protection of the public is a matter of prime importance," said Judge Fraser before passing sentence.

Equipment Lack Surprises Mayor

Fire Probe Hearings End, Judgment Promised 'Soon'

Edmonton's dangerous shortage of fire fighting equipment came as a "great surprise" to him, said Mayor Harry Ainlay yesterday as investigation into Northern Hardware building fire concluded.

The probe of the March blaze wound up yesterday.

Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor, presiding over the tribunal, said he would hand down a judgment "as soon as possible."

The commission sought to determine whether or not there had been negligence on the part of the fire department during the warehouse fire.

Mayor and city commissioners John Hodgson and D. B. Menzies were last of a long list of witnesses to take the stand over the two weeks of investigation.

Mayor Ainlay said the commission conducting the probe had been "never aware of the dangerous situation" brought about by the shortage of good equipment.

During long hours of testimony, witnesses have upheld the suggestion that Edmonton has but three pieces of efficient mobile apparatus to protect the city against fire.

Fire fighting expert Harold Burke of New York has recommended that 190 men be taken on the department's payroll during the next five years.

Burke said his investigation of the warehouse fire satisfied him that there were not enough men available to fight the million dollar blaze and also protect the city from possible further fires.

Commissioner Hodgson testified that only once in 1943, his City Chief Macgregor asked for extra men. "He asked for 18 men. City council decided on four."

Witness explained that Edmonton's five existing fire engines have been out of service for the past several years because of the years since depression first hit Edmonton.

"Only with the war did property come to Edmonton," he said. "The department's equipment was years equipment was unavailable," and the situation is little improved to this day.

The commissioner agreed with Northern Hardware owner Bruce Smith that the growth of Edmonton has outstripped the services the city is prepared to offer.

The commissioner agreed with Mr. Smith that "we've got to start thinking like a large city and not a small town," and insisted that "we already are."

Commissioner Hodgson intimated that the city will follow recommendations laid down by Western Canada Insurance Underwriters Association and former fire commissioner.

"Now that we've started," he said, "we must go through with the program, no matter what it costs."

Mr. Smith asked the commissioner if he would admit "Burke and the insurance experts" know what they're talking about. "We must respect their opinions. Do you agree with that?"

"That's right," the commissioner answered. "And we pay them accordingly."

Ignoring Town Planning

The city's plan to pass a bylaw on October 10th to close a portion of 103 avenue, west of 100 street, in connection with the erection of a new market building looks like a deliberate attempt to sidestep the provisions of the town planning report and pull a ruse on the citizens affected.

That report recommends that this general area should be devoted to business and office buildings.

It is difficult to reconcile the erection of a market building in this district with the office building type of structure.

Such a reconciliation might be made. But until the town planning report is carefully studied and adopted, and until it is shown that there is no other way to dispose of a low revenue city market housed down among high revenue office buildings, this project could and should wait.

Moreover, the projected closing of a portion of 103 avenue in a section of the city where traffic is already unduly congested looks about as sensible as the recommendations on traffic routing are given consideration.

The proposal to close the street before the property is acquired looks very much like an attempt to intimidate a group of property owners who have never shown a disposition to do other than co-operate.

Using the Neighborly Formula

Occasionally, there occurs in the world a thing which causes people to believe the millennium of peace can be attained.

One of these things has just happened in Washington. The leaders of Great Britain, the United States and Canada have come away from a conference with a solution for Britain's dollar difficulties. But it is not the solution which deserves praise. It is the way in which it was reached.

Surely, it augurs well for the future when such complete accord on a very touchy matter can be attained in a matter of a few days, without the usual verbal back-biting, accusation, counter-accusation and resultant hard feelings.

Relations between the peoples of Britain and the U.S. have not always been of the best. This is easily understandable when one considers the vicious attacks made on Britain by certain sections of the press which reaches a large proportion of the American public.

It is a healthy sign when U.S. leaders can see through this jungle of misinformation and reach out to a solution based on economic and political truth. It is good, too, that British can overcome the distrust of modern Americanism in order to accept the opinions of American statesmen.

There is always a possibility the solution worked out in the Washington talks is not the correct one. But as long as this air of co-operation and trust exists between these two great nations, we may be confident the true solution will be found.

Christ the Forgiver of Sins

Everyone is acquainted with the lovely story of how Jesus accepted an invitation to eat with one of the Pharisees and how when he was followed home by the Pharisee's house, a woman followed Him who was known to the whole city as a notorious sinner.

And when he sat down at the table this woman stood before Him weeping. And she fell down before Him and dried them with her hair and broke over them an expensive box of precious perfume.

Then there was a murmuring from His host about the manner of woman who had ventured into his house and had dared to touch the Lord.

And Jesus told them the parable of the creditor who had two debtors, one who owed five hundred pence and the other fifty. But the creditor forgave them both.

"Tell me, therefore," said Jesus, "which of them will love him most?"

And the company said that he who was forgiven most would love the most.

Then Jesus recounted how the woman who lived him love him most.

And the company said that he who was forgiven most would love the most.

Then Jesus recounted how the woman who lived him love him most.

with measures essential to civil progress. There is already a wide doubt among Edmonton citizens about the necessity for a city market at all, certainly as to the purpose of a market to provide a direct contact between producer and consumer is not completely accomplished in the type of market we have.

But even assuming that a market is economically essential, surely an institution which returns as comparatively little revenue should not occupy space which experts have designated for the occupancy of office structures.

All this, of course, is debatable. What is not debatable and what appears to constitute a flagrant attempt to contravene town planning is the rushing through of this bylaw to close 103 avenue before the town planning system comes into effect.

If the council is determined to have its own obdurate way about the location of an auditorium and the location of a city market against the advice of the town planning experts, why were these experts called in at all?

There is no point in the world of having a town planning survey if the civic administration proposes to balk the effects of the survey at every possible point. It is a case again of the amateurs knowing better than the professionals.

The best. This is easily understandable when one considers the vicious attacks made on Britain by certain sections of the press which reaches a large proportion of the American public.

Dances Not Broken Up

Editor, Bulletin—In regard to your editorial of Sept. 13, "Rooftop Gang at Again," we would like to correct a misunderstanding. The complaint that went to the League was "too much noise coming from the hall and on their way home also use of faulty language."

As for breaking up the dances, use of knuckle dusters, we have attended all the Junior League dances as sponsors and have never been asked to leave. MR. AND MRS. L. F. TRAHAN, 3025 Cameron Ave.

Water Safety

Editor, Bulletin—The Edmonton branch, Canadian Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Committee, have expressed their appreciation to the Bulletin for your cooperation in the summer camp program, held at the Red Cross at the local swimming pool.

On behalf of the Edmonton committee I have been asked to express special thanks to the Bulletin.

More About Robeson

Editor, Bulletin—Regarding the discussion on Paul Robeson, it is well to recall his speech at the American conference in Washington to devise ways of relieving Britain's economic crisis. He said that the American people should not be misled by the propaganda of the British government, a private research agency in the U.S. capital, which had "elevated the Negro people to a position of equality with the white."

For this he was rebuked by the American press and the British press. He said: "I am not a Negro. I am a man who can fight against the forces of reaction and I will fight them as hard as I can."

He said: "I am not a Negro. I am a man who can fight against the forces of reaction and I will fight them as hard as I can."

Use Fire Extinguishers

Editor, Bulletin—Perhaps you can find space and time to interest yourself in the question as to the cause and start of the Northern Hardware and other fires.

Which has been said and done to correct the errors of the fire department, revealed in the lack of proper fire protection in this fast-growing city, but not a word has been said or done, or warning made, as to the cause of the fire. Surely that part should not be overlooked during this investigation.

Surely the fire would not start without some cause. It seems strange that a fire should get such a start, with several owners of the building, and that the fire should have been said or done, or warning made, as to the cause of the fire. Comments Editorial

Editor, Bulletin—Congratulations on your editorial in The Edmonton Bulletin of Sept. 6, entitled "Unconscious Speculation in Britain." In this department we have been following carefully what has been going on in Britain for some time under the Socialist government. Our conclusions confirm exactly those we have expressed in your editorial.

One reason why government bulk contracts, it seems to me, are almost always bound to fail is that the price has to be set for a number of years ahead, that international conditions change which sometimes warrant a higher and sometimes warrant a lower price, so that the contract price is out of line with economic realities, so therefore someone is obliged to suffer.

Which has been said and done to correct the errors of the fire department, revealed in the lack of proper fire protection in this fast-growing city, but not a word has been said or done, or warning made, as to the cause of the fire. Public Officials Deserve More Pay

It has been suggested members of the Supreme Court of Canada be paid more money. So they should. They should pay more public officials.

The fact is, we are far too miserly in the matter of the salaries being paid to many key officials. We pay less than we should from a cash angle, and because they are paid from public funds, we cannot understand why they should expect much.

But the point overlook is that the salary also establishes the type of person we obtain.

We want to have a Supreme Court of Canada that is capable of applying all the skill and knowledge necessary to the deciding of our largest and most difficult cases, that we may be confident in leaving to them the people who possess such great brains and great abilities can obtain far larger incomes through their own efforts far larger than those now offered.

Like it or not, our Supreme Court in the Province is the court which determines matters of life and death and other things of great importance. It is our duty to secure the best people. Yet if we long can we hope to do that if we are not willing to pay them more than they could obtain elsewhere.

One reason why government bulk contracts, it seems to me, are almost always bound to fail is that the price has to be set for a number of years ahead, that international conditions change which sometimes warrant a higher and sometimes warrant a lower price, so that the contract price is out of line with economic realities, so therefore someone is obliged to suffer.

Which has been said and done to correct the errors of the fire department, revealed in the lack of proper fire protection in this fast-growing city, but not a word has been said or done, or warning made, as to the cause of the fire. Surely that part should not be overlooked during this investigation.

Coal Strike Fears Increase in U.S.

8,000 More Miners Quit, Steel Industry Hopeful

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The danger of a country-wide coal strike in the United States mounted today but hopes brightened for averting a steel strike.

The 400,000 coal miners are expected to play away from the pits next Monday because their wives and families, headed by Union President John L. Lewis, have voted to suspend pension and other benefit payments.

City Bridge Project Falls Behind Schedule

MUCH WORK still needs to be done on west end of bridge, installing new supports on substructure and channel supports on 18-inch centres for steel deck to rest on. New curbing must be laid too. Here workers rivet additional supports on bridge beams. City engineer J. D. Macdonald said on Aug. 30 that the promised six-week opening would be met without use of extra crews advocated by Bulletin. Men on job say sliding banks of Groat Ravine cracked old abutments, and necessitated extensive repairs not anticipated in six-week estimate.

CONCRETE BASE for west abutment is being allowed to set before building of new west end abutment. Foundation work was not completed at bridge, and will have plenty of time before being completed. When new abutment is completed, workers will have to dig some 200 feet of concrete extending back from it. Heavy machinery of steel for bridge have not been back progress.

SCHEDULED OPENING date for traffic over Groat Ravine bridge presented this scene. Workmen on right, beside pile of decking, are rivetting together strips of thick steel mesh decking. Only about half of decking laid out on surface of bridge is rivetted in place, while new bearers for deck is not yet in place on far end.

Young Peoples' Survey Asked By City Meeting

Young people's groups will get special attention here when a committee of the Council of Social Agencies surveys local organizations interested in the welfare of immigrants to Canada.

This decision was reached yesterday when representatives of various service and welfare associations met Council of Social Agencies authorities at a meeting in the board room of the city annex.

Sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies, the meeting was addressed by Constance Hayward of the Canadian Citizenship Branch, department of the secretary of state.

Miss Hayward outlined the need for the help of individuals in teaching new Canadians true citizenship and described work being carried on to this end by various groups and individuals in other parts of Canada.

She described social agencies as the most important factor in giving new Canadians the right concept of citizenship, and said that part of citizenship work extended to young people of Canada as well.

GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Jose Pardo Llada, a radio commentator, said some things that irked Col. Jose Caramera, the national chief of police.

Yesterday the police chief sent for him. The chief took off his pistol and the two fought with their fists. When they got through, each signed a statement saying the other was a gentleman.

There was scarcely a mark on either of them.

Women of Today

CLASSROOM CLASSICS are the grey tailored skirt and white cashmere pullover worn by Mary Lou Lister, right. Gay silk neckerchief, grey shoes, and scarlet corduroy jacket are the perfect accessories. Her classmate, Daurel Mills, wears the books in grey slacks, white tailored skirt and pearl white waist.

TRAVELLING TONES are always chosen, says Arlene Jones. Her grey classic suit is faintly over-checked with wine to match hat.

STADIUM STANDBY in this kidskin jacket, worn over a tailored frock of light and dark grey flannel. Jeanne Rogers chooses red cloche, gloves and shoes, all set for the tea dates after game.

FULL AND FLOUNCY is the choice of Jocelyn Malley for a short party frock. Of delicate black lace over natural taffeta, it features rows of tumbling on bodice and skirt. (Gowns by Walk-Rite)

Walk-Rite's College Wardrobe One of '49's Campus Leaders

A-L-B-E-T-T-A! Rah, rah, U of A!

Just couldn't resist giving out with that old college yell, could we? Every alum gets a mile homesick for the alma mater. Registration day on the green and gold campus comes but on the heels of the first golden frostings in the basketballman river valley, and girls all over the province are caught in a last-minute frenzy of shopping while mother sews frantically, and the charge accounts.

Can't you think that we're not interested in college men-at-iron? But it's the girls and their wardrobes that are under discussion at the moment.

So gather 'round, kids, for the pearls of wisdom that I've gleaned from fashion experts, buyers, and clothes-conscious seniors.

GOLDEN RULE

Golden rule for college students: no, to try to look too different, but to dress to the other girls do.

Sounds a trifle monstrous, but it's not really.

It's just that the classic wardrobe for Canadian and American students has evolved into a kind of uniform—perhaps the most practical, colorful and versatile uniform in the world.

Whether your choice of a school is Miss Sweet Belle's Finishing Academy or Peckham College Agricultural College, your basic wardrobe will be almost the same.

By all means spice up your costumes with original touches, such as startling color combinations, interesting fabrics, clever accessories, but remember that certain articles are basic, say style experts at Edmonton's Walk-Rite Store.

First and foremost on the list is the tailored suit for travelling, for shopping, for spectator sports, in fact, for everything. It's not too much to expect that a tweed, flannel or gabardine suit will last years, so buy the kind that never loses fashion's favor.

Wherever you go, the campus must should be big, loose, bulky and go on over everything. Fine material is one that you can't be bothered or loose, with huge pockets, big collar and the kind of sleeves that slip on easily over suit coats. It's good in any color, of course, but fall fashion forecasts say that red is the coming coat color this year.

SKIRTS 'N' SWEATERS

Skirts and sweaters are the backbone of any college kit, and the more of them, the merrier. But please, make one skirt plain, won't it for the basic wardrobe. Then the skirt can be changed with the sweater, and the skirt can be changed with the sweater, and the skirt can be changed with the sweater.

You'll need a blouse or two for your suit, but I'll bet you won't wear them much in class, on account of the washing and ironing. Maybe one of the new jersey sweater blouses is the answer to this problem.

TEA-TIME MUSICALS

At Miss Sweet Belle's Finishing Academy or Peckham College Agricultural College, your basic wardrobe will be almost the same.

By all means spice up your costumes with original touches, such as startling color combinations, interesting fabrics, clever accessories, but remember that certain articles are basic, say style experts at Edmonton's Walk-Rite Store.

First and foremost on the list is the tailored suit for travelling, for shopping, for spectator sports, in fact, for everything. It's not too much to expect that a tweed, flannel or gabardine suit will last years, so buy the kind that never loses fashion's favor.

Wherever you go, the campus must should be big, loose, bulky and go on over everything. Fine material is one that you can't be bothered or loose, with huge pockets, big collar and the kind of sleeves that slip on easily over suit coats. It's good in any color, of course, but fall fashion forecasts say that red is the coming coat color this year.

SKIRTS 'N' SWEATERS

Skirts and sweaters are the backbone of any college kit, and the more of them, the merrier. But please, make one skirt plain, won't it for the basic wardrobe. Then the skirt can be changed with the sweater, and the skirt can be changed with the sweater, and the skirt can be changed with the sweater.

You'll need a blouse or two for your suit, but I'll bet you won't wear them much in class, on account of the washing and ironing. Maybe one of the new jersey sweater blouses is the answer to this problem.

PINK AND PURITY is Barbara Blackett's formal gown of taffeta. Off-the-shoulder neckline and shirred bodice are youthful, flattering. Demure lace mittens and tiny bag are added attractions.

ROUNDAABOUT

By Kit Andrew

OVERHEAD two nasty men talking on a loaded street-car at that depressing, fatiguing hour of six o'clock.

They were audibly complaining about two women passengers encumbered with parcels and small, crying children. And rightly so . . . if the women were just spending a casual afternoon shopping and their husbands' hard-earned money.

But if those women work for their living, have to do their shopping when and if they can, leave their children at the creche all day . . . then those men are beasts, veritable beasts I say. They have an alternative to riding at the rush hour.

THESE SPEEDY VEHICLES (the motor-coaches) are fairly plentiful in Pacific Coast cities where roads are paved and weather considerably milder. But here, when even a gravelled road is a treat, hardships will be great.

But each of the three stalwart riders plan to continue using the transportation method during winter months.

WAKE UP AND LIVE, Edmonton! Highly incensed citizens have been palavering, ranting, raving about the obvious need for a civic transit system. So what happens? When meetings to plan transit were on the publicity for the project are held a mere sprinkling of 18 people are present. Just 18 out of a city reported to be clamoring at the hub for culture, concerts and civic events.

With slum clearances of an entire block, the need for Sunday afternoon bus service has stopped, the situation becomes increasingly important. At least it seems important to 18 people.

TEA-TIME MUSICALS at the Museum of Art unveiled a new line of need for Sunday afternoon bus service. Last year, when slum clearances of an entire block, the need for Sunday afternoon bus service has stopped, the situation becomes increasingly important. At least it seems important to 18 people.

Back-To-School Bazaar Plans in Order For Wed.

Fashion-conscious members of the fledgling set will be happy as little clams when their moms return from the Garneau Junior WA Back-To-School bazaar.

The bazaar will take place in the basement of the Garneau United Church Sept. 23 during the afternoon. Proceeds will go to the church building fund.

Mrs. Douglas H. Sharpe is president of the busy WA group and Mrs. J. M. Whidden is bazaar convenor.

Bright, modest skirts, sweaters, knee socks for the school-age girls will be featured at the bazaar. Serviceable overalls, sweater, socks, shirts and houses will be top of the list for the well-dressed young school girls.

Novelty Mexican jackets in size 10 will be a gem for some lucky youngster. Gay flower-decked felt headdresses for the saucy Babbies will be matched by mittens of the same materials. Houses and collar dicker will be plentiful.

Embargo on Brains Deplored By Yandas

Lifting of Canada's "embargo on brains" would enrich the country, and be an asset to it culturally and industrially.

This is the opinion of Mrs. M. Yanda, who returned recently to her Edmonton home after a three-month tour of the United States.

Mrs. Yanda represented the YWCA and the YWCA of the United States in her tour of the United States.

She has just completed a lecture tour of the United States.

Despite the fact that over 100,000 DPs have been resettled in the past two years, there are still 500,000 in camps.

Among these are 50,000 refugees and approximately 100,000 DPs who are still in camps.

These are being held in camps because most countries cannot accept them to enter.

It is estimated that the IRO is winding up its operations in June, there is much to be done for these people.

Mrs. Yanda, who must not forget that she is the victim of the "embargo on brains," says that the IRO should be given the right to select the best of the refugees to enter Canada.

Little Chief and His Friends Are Putting On A Show Tonight

DICK TRACY—
The other boys and girls time time buy as best this week planning a concert for Saturday evening.
They find up a stage, made and and tickets and rehearsed the showing on the hill.

Little Chief and his friends have had a great time preparing to entertain the community. The director of one of the boys had an empty garage and that is where the concert is to be held.

Every afternoon after school the neighborhood boys and girls have been rehearsing in the garage to work on the show. With old pieces of lumber the boys have built a stage at one end of the building and the girls have used sheets for curtains.

MADE TICKETS
Some of the younger children made tickets with pieces of colored paper and their own drawings.
Dorothy has been getting orders for their parents and some neighbors and sisters. Tonight's show will be a family affair.

There's not a basement in the neighborhood that looks normal after the men, women and girls have made rooming through the trunks. Old bowler hats, card dresses with sagging waistlines and stained trousers are among the funny articles taken from the trunks. Every trunk has a cushion for the show.

"All morning they've been preparing the show, women and men together. They do their exercises in the audience will look on and pokes their heads through the curtain girl dressed in a long dress with a floppy hat and a cushion in their hands. The girls are dressed in their best.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS
Having enjoyed the amusement and learning that his father was mysteriously missing, Buster hopped as fast as he could back into the woods.

THE SEARCH
"I'm sure," said the Rabbit Scout himself, "that daddy had gone to look for a funny, sensational cat. With Buster and I, with Puckey the blue elephant, he'll be the clown and Chow Chow the jolly fiddling dog. I'll have the very act that daddy needs. What I must do now is to find daddy and tell him about our act."

"Buster, we got to go find Uncle Wiggily right away! We got to get him away from these prairie!"
"About and jolly, Uncle Buster.
I'm as anxious as you are to get Cap'n Wiggily back to his amusement raft."

"But, Buster my dear sandwich, don't believe the prairie have him in a trap. You don't know what you're talking about."
"Well, you're not talking very plain, Uncle Buster."

"Buster, on account of the fact that I'm sure, I'm sure, I'm sure, I've swallowed these cheese and I wiggly."

"I haven't any cheese, Uncle Butter, and I say prairie are all stump and poppycock."
"What is prairie?" asked Uncle Buster of Buster.

"He was here a moment ago, sitting on the interground elephant. Now he seems to have gone
I guess he'll be back."

"I feel you smiling about something with us, Buster."

"Yes, Uncle Buster. I am and I'll tell you the bedtime story but that's all. I'll get Buster and we'll go look in the woods for Cap'n Wig-gily. If Buster, come here, please!"
"Thank you, I'd rather not," said Buster to himself. "I'll go look for daddy and then I'll take him where Buster and the others are sitting on the elephant's back waiting for me."

Hopping as silently as a shadow, Buster moved away from the mainbody and asparagus bushes and made his way deeper into the woods to look for his father.

Buster searched all over the amusement park looking for Buster but, of course, he couldn't find the Rabbit Scout.

"Nurse Jane, please give me some of your molasses pop corn," said Buster to the milkster lady housekeeper.

"Why do you want molasses pop corn, Buster?"

"To help me think of a way to find Cap'n Wiggily. Yum! Yum!
Your molasses pop corn is grand!"

While Buster was eating the pop corn and thinking, Buster was hopping deeper and deeper into the woods.

"Aa! Where's my daddy?"
thought Buster sitting down on a stump. Then, all at a sudden he heard a robin perched in a tree over his head saying:

"Poor Uncle Wiggily! Poor Uncle Wiggily!"

Buster hopped off the stump in surprise.

EDMONTON BULLETIN

Alberta's First Newspaper—Edmonton, Alberta, Saturday, September 17, 1949

Synopsis: STANDING IN THE PATH OF THE RETURNING PILOTS, PRINCE VALIANT AND HIS MEN FACE ALMOST CERTAIN DESTRUCTION. WITH COURAGEOUS INTERLUDES AND POWERS TO BRIBE WITH GOLD TWO RIVAL CHIEFTAINS.

"TO YOU, ODER, WILL I GIVE THIS PURSE OF GOLD IF YOU WILL TAKE YOUR MEN AWAY. AND HERE IS A HANDFUL OF COINS FOR 'THE HAMMER' IF HE WILL DO THE SAME."

"ALTHOUGH THE BRIBE IS TRIVIAL THE INSULT IS NOT! 'THE HAMMER'S' FACE IS DARK WITH ANGER. 'WHY OFFER ME LESS THAN ODER?'"

"BECAUSE HE IS THE GREATER MAN!" PRINCE VALIANT SAYS. "HE HAS NOT HEARD HIM BOAST OF HIS LEADERSHIP."

"BEAST! BOAST!" THUNDERED 'THE HAMMER'. "THAT'S ALL THAT YOU AND YOUR MEN CAN DO! WALK WITH MY BARE HANDS!"

"DEAR ME," MUTTERS VALIANT PLEASANTLY. "SUCH BAD TEMPER! I HOPE IT IS NOT BECAUSE OF ANYTHING 'OUD'!"

CLAN MEMBERS RUSH TO THE AID OF THEIR CHIEFTAINS. SOON THERE ARE MORE PILOTS AND MORE PILOTS THAN ARE FIGHTING THE MEN. AND THESE WOUNDED MEN HAVE A MUCH NEEDED REST.

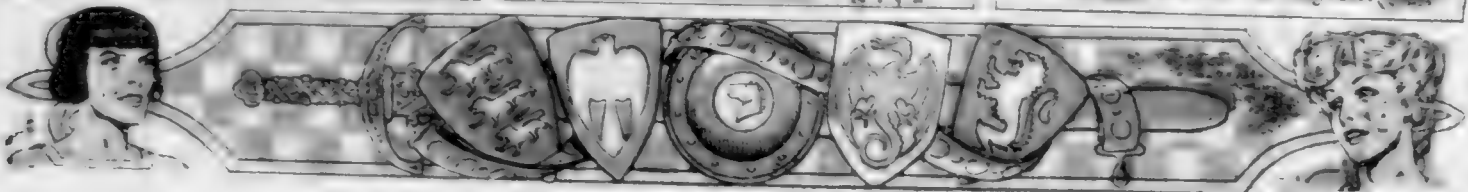

NO LONGER IS IT SAFE NORTH OF THE VAL. FOR THE PILOTS ARE COMING OVER WHEREVER THEY CAN AND DEATH COMES SURE TO YOUNG ODERFORD.

BUT HE WINDS TO A DISTANT MINECASTLE AND LIES IN WAIT. AND BRITAIN. AHEAD OF HIM IS THE LONG ROAD TO SAMUEL AND HIS MEN. DANGER!

Next Week - The Long Ride.

SECOND ACT!

CRIMESTOPPERS' TEXT BOOK

NEXT TO PATTERNS OF FINGERPRINTS, THE EARS ARE THE MOST CHARACTERISTIC PART OF THE BODY AND REMAIN SO THROUGHOUT LIFE.

SECOND ACT—CURTAIN GOING UP!

THAT'S THE MAN TRACY'S AFTER! HE JUST ATTACKED SOME-ONE IN SPIKE'S DRESSING ROOM.

BUT WHERE IS TRACY?

TRACY SEEMS TO HAVE DISAPPEARED. WE'VE GOT TO GET TO THAT THEATER.

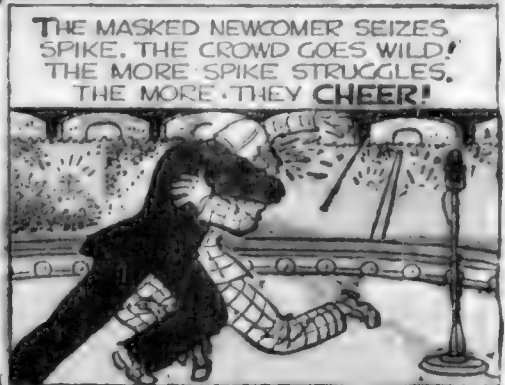

MEANWHILE A RIDICULOUS LOOKING FIGURE MOVES TOWARD SPIKE ON THE STAGE.

LOOK! SPIKE'S RINGING IN A NEW ACT ON US.

THE AUDIENCE AND THE REST OF THE BAND THINK IT'S JUST ANOTHER CRAZY GAG COOKED UP BY SPIKE.

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH? HE DIDN'T EVEN TELL US.

THE MASKED NEWCOMER SEIZES SPIKE. THE CROWD GOES WILD! THE MORE SPIKE STRUGGLES, THE MORE THEY CHEER!

SUDDENLY, ONE MEMBER OF THE BAND STEPS DOWN TO THE STAGE.

SHOTS RING OUT! THE CURTAIN FALLS!

I JUST CAME BACK HERE TO GET SPIKE'S CIGARETTES AND SOME-ONE TRIED TO DROWN ME—

AND IN SPIKE'S DRESSING ROOM

I-I'M DROWNING (CLUB-CLUB)—

LET'S YANK OFF THAT MASK.

HEY, JOE—MY BASS! HORN PLAYER! HOW DID YOU—

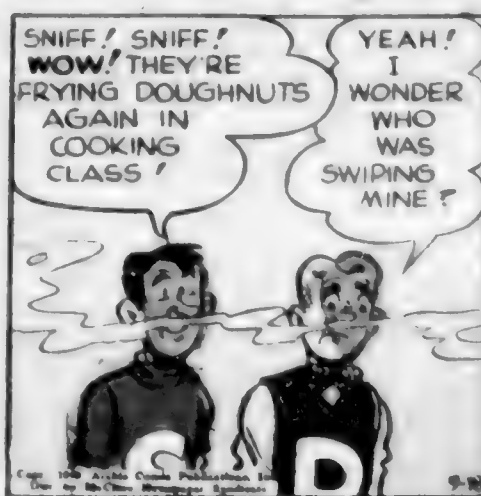

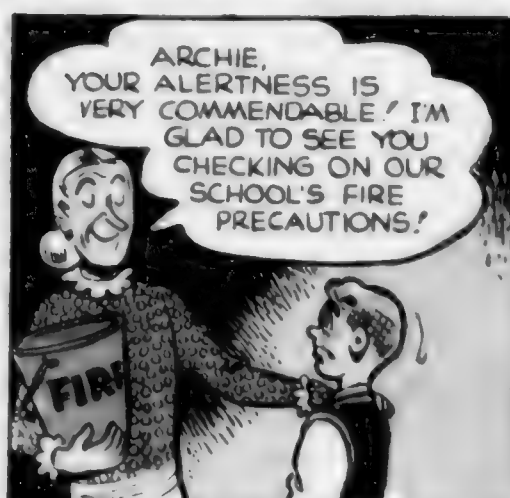

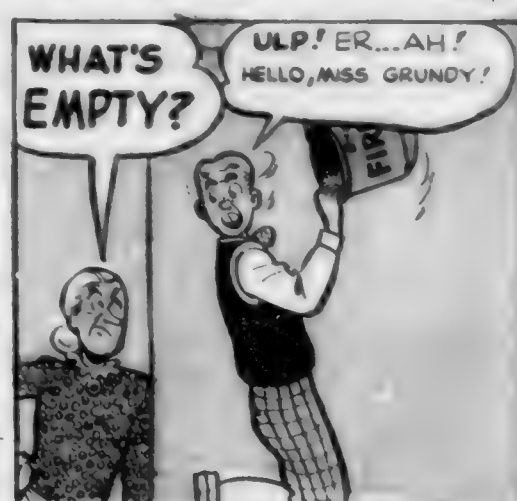

TRACY!

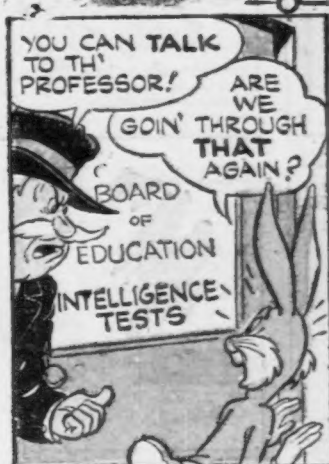

I SUSPECTED A SENSATIONAL STROKE LIKE THIS MIGHT BE MADE BY PAREE. I TRADED PLACES WITH YOUR BASS PLAYER.

Little Orphan Annie

IT IS COSTLY WISDOM THAT IS BOUGHT BY EXPERIENCE (SIGH) BUT IT CAN BE WORTH THE TIME -- "IT TAKES LONGER TO HARD-BOIL A MAN OR A WOMAN THAN AN EGG" (PLAUN)

MAYBE I WAS WRONG, BUT I TRIED SO HARD--AFTER ALL, JOHNNY HAD MADE MY DREAM COME TRUE--A HANDSOME HUSBAND--A WONDERFUL LITTLE HOUSE OF MY OWN ON THE BIG BARGE--NO MORE WEEDS TO PULL ALL DAY LONG--I WAS FREE--I THOUGHT--

BUT PRETTY SOON HE STARTED BELTIN' YUH AROUND--AND LEAVIN' YUH TO RUN TH' BARGE ALONE, EH?

BUT I TRIED TO FORGIVE HIM--EVEN WHEN HE CURSED ME SO HORRIBLY--HE SAID HE HATED ME--SAID HE'D KILL ME--I'D NEVER BE MISSED--BUT I--I COULDN'T GO BACK TO THE FARM--I JUST COULDN'T!

WHEN I GOT SICK I THOUGHT HE'D CHANGED--HE SEEMED SORRY--SAID HE'D TAKE ME TO A FINE HOSPITAL--HE PUT ME IN THE SKIFF SO TENDERLY--AND--AND THAT'S THE LAST I CAN REMEMBER CLEARLY--TILL--

TILL YOU WOKED UP HERE, EH?

YOUR JOHNNY SOUNDS LIKE QUITE A CHARACTER! DO YOU STILL LOVE TH' GUY?

LOVE? NO, ANNIE--I GUESS I WAS IN LOVE WITH LOVE, MAYBE--

OR IN LOVE WITH THE BARGE--AND ESCAPE FROM THE FARM--I COULD HAVE LOVED JOHNNY--BUT--BUT HE SPOILED ALL THAT--

YEAH! WELL, IN THAT CASE I GUESS YOU'RE JUST ABOUT CURED!--OF A LOT O' THINGS!

YES! I'M CURED, ANNIE! BUT I'M NOT BITTER--I DON'T HATE ANYONE--I'M JUST HAPPY THAT I'M STILL ALIVE--

WELL, THAT'S A GOOD SIGN! I'M TELLIN' YUH, IT'S NOT A BAD WORLD, IN SPITE O' SOME O' TH' PEOPLE YUH MEET--

YOU TOLD ME YOUR NAME IS LENA--WELL, WE'VE GOT TO START MAKIN' SOME PLANS, LENA--

I KNOW, ANNIE--THIS ABANDONED OLD BARGE--HE THOUGHT I'D NEVER EVER BE FOUND HERE--

OR IF I WERE, I'D BE JUST ANOTHER MISSING, BUT UNMISSED, PERSON--THERE WASN'T A DROP OF WATER OR A CRUMB OF FOOD HERE--BUT YOU--

OH, SHUCKS! FORGET IT--I HAD TO EAT, TOO, YOU KNOW--WHAT'S A FEW GROCERIES?

YOU SPENT A LOT FOR FOOD--YOU'RE NOT RICH OR YOU WOULDN'T BE HERE--YES--IT'S TIME WE DID MAKE SOME PLANS--

O. K.--SO NOW I'M JUST ABOUT FINANCIALLY WAPUT! BUT I'M HEALTHY--AND SO ARE YOU, JUST ABOUT--

NEITHER OF US IS SCARED O' WORK! WE'VE BOTH GOT SENSE ENOUGH TO COME IN, OUT O' TH' RAIN--SO-O-O--WHAT DO WE DO NOW?

WELL, WE NEED A HOME--WE HAVE IT--HERE--WE NEED FUEL--THIS OLD HULK WAS LOADED WITH COAL--SO-O-O--WE TAKE IT FROM THERE, EH?

IN BUSINESS IT'S CONTRACTS THAT COUNT--ALL I KNOW SO FAR ARE DOC AND A GUY NAMED ROCKY--WE GOTTA EXPAND OUR CONTRACTS, LENA--

I'M STRONG NOW--I CAN DO ANY KIND OF WORK--LAUNDRY--MAID--TOMORROW, ANNIE--WE'LL START OUT--AND SUCCEED!--AND I'M NOT DREAMING NOW!
